Participants received an 18-page workbook / study guide containing examples, illustrations, quotes, references and recommended reading list; two small, laminated “Summary Cards,” (one as their “license” with Mindmap); a Behavior modification card; along with their “Goals, Values & Affirmations” notebook & pen.

Participant responses to:

“The training that was MOST helpful”

> All – Excellent!! > The hands-on group portions.
The goal writing & notebooks > Great stories – great engagement of the class > Listening tactics; how we “hear” different; real-life stories were powerful; how to become more aware of personal deficits so we can be more proactive > listening, activity / journals > “Courage is Contagious” > The listening section as that is an area I have really been working on > Small tips & tricks of remembering names & listening > Leadership & Courage = Connection; personal stories > All > The stories to illustrate the most meaningful points > Personal stories, Courage > Values > All of it > Remembering that leading is more than just giving directions, it’s about listening and using that to improve. > Wish we could have a full-day seminar with you. Thank you, Mr. Frazier.
